40 TAG begins reviewing EPA cleanup documents

The Technical Advisory Group has started reviewing the EPA's cleanup documents and will eventually seek public comments.

The groups meets Tuesdays in "study sessions" from 7-9 p.m. at the Lincoln County Campus of Flathead Valley Community College, according to technical advisor Gordon Sullivan.

Eventually, the information will be complied into a report on the EPA's work plans that TAG will release for public comment. Those comments will be incorporated into the report and it will be presented to the EPA, Sullivan said.

Looking at the basic elements of the EPA's work plan, Sullivan said there are few concerns that can't be worked out with CDM or the EPA in a two-hour meeting.

"The biggest thing we are doing is risk assessment," Sullivan said. "It's something that will go on for years."

He said two people from TAG, one from the Center for Asbestos-Related Disease and one from the state will travel to Denver to discuss risk assessment with the EPA's Region 8 representatives.

TAG is funded by a grant from the EPA.
